

PRESS RELEASE

Tricia Countryman's first solo album, "Sometimes When I'm Dreaming..." has been released by Sterling Swan Records and Tapes, and is available for sale now.

Tricia has performed in many musical genres. She has appeared in over 30 musical theatre stage productions, including roles such as the Witch in Sondheim's "Into The Woods", and as Aldonza in "Man From La Mancha". Tricia has also performed and toured with a vocal comedy group, and has worked behind the scenes as a musical director and choreographer. For a time, she also sang backup vocals for a blues band. Recording a solo album had never occurred to her until recently.

"A good friend of mine asked me to make a recording of one of his original songs. Shortly after that, I decided to record a few of my other favorite songs -- just because I love singing. One song led to another, so to challenge myself even more, I thought, "Why not release these favorite songs as an actual CD!"

Musical guests on "Sometimes When I'm Dreaming..." include vocalists John Hunter Phillips, Michael G. McFadden, and her husband, Dana Countryman. Many of Tricia's favorite musicians also contribute to the album.

Several of the songs from "Sometimes When I'm Dreaming..." have already been played on such radio programs, as Alan Haber's "Pure Pop Radio", Michael McCartney's "The Time Machine", and Jim Prell's "The Music Authority".

"Sometimes When I'm Dreaming..." is available as a physical CD from Amazon.com.
